

COURTS PROBE THE LYNCHING

Judge Jones Lays Down the Law to Grand Jury Regarding the Motives.

THEY MUST PROTECT THE BLACKS

If Mob Acts Simply Because Crime Is Laid at the Door of Colored Men, It Constitutes an Offense That Is Punishable.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]

Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 12.—The intervention of the federal court to suppress lynching in the south and its power to punish members of mobs for slaying negroes solely because of racial prejudice and in violation of the constitution were principles enunciated by United States Judge Thomas G. Jones in charging the federal jury.

For the first time in criminal legal procedure in the south, Judge Jones maintained that it was within the power of the federal courts to prevent white men from lynching negroes in violation of rights guaranteed colored citizens of the United States under the constitution.

The jury had completed its investigation of the facts in connection with the overpowering of the state troops and lynching of Maples. The judge in delivering his charge discussed the authority under which offenses of the kind may be punished.

Has Power to Punish.

Answering the question whether federal jurors had a duty to perform with reference to the offense committed by the mob, Judge Jones said:

"The answer involves inquiry whether congress has power to punish such an offense, and, if so, has it exercised that power by appropriate legislation? Certainly congress has power under the fourteenth amendment to legislate against lawless resistance to state authority in affording protection to citizens."

"Under the thirteenth amendment Maples had the immunity as a citizen of the United States to be protected against lawless violence by the mob of whites when such violence was directed toward him because he was a negro."

Masked Men Rob Station.

Litchfield, Ill., Oct. 12.—The station of the Big Four railroad here was robbed by two masked men, who held up the operator.

Motive of the Crime.

"Was Maples taken from the officers of the state and murdered because of indignation provoked by the crime laid at his door without reference to the race to which he belonged and without any purpose on that account to prevent his enjoyment of the common right of a trial by court? His murder under such circumstances would present the features of an ordinary murder, which is a crime only against the laws of the state of Alabama, and in that event you have nothing to do with it."

Jury Must Determine.

"If, however, you find something more than a mere felonious purpose to avenge the crime imputed to him and that the mob was actuated by the bad spirit that a person of Maples' race, when accused of crime, should not have the right to be acquitted, if innocent, or condemned and punished by the court, if guilty, and that the mob hung him to prevent his enjoyment of that right because of his race, his murder by a mob of persons of a different race constitutes a crime against the laws of the United States."

Court Suggests a Test.

"Perhaps as good a test as any other in arriving at a just conclusion is to ask yourselves, considering what was said as well as what was done by the mob, would a white man, under the same circumstances, charged with the particular offense upon the same victim, have been attacked or murdered by this mob? If you are fairly satisfied that the mob would not have murdered Maples if he had been a white man then every dictate of humanity and justice demands that you return true bills against the members of the mob."

ANGRY PARENT TAKES HUSBAND FROM BRIDE

Father Forces His Son to Go Home, Threatening to Send Him to Prison for Perjury.

Edwardsville, Ill., Oct. 12.—An angry father, armed with a state warrant and aided by a constable, descended on a wedding party at Troy Tuesday afternoon and tore a youthful bridegroom from the side of his bride of a few hours.

"You will either return home, where you belong, or go to the penitentiary," the father remarked to the young man, and when the girl clung about his knees and vowed she would kill herself if he persisted in his demand he added, "You may commit suicide if you choose, I don't care, but you cannot have my son."

As both his parents had opposed his marriage, William Wells slipped away to the county seat, secured a license to wed Miss Anna Brendel and hastened to her house at Troy. Learning of his action, his father, Daniel Wells, pursued and, arriving just as the ceremony was starting, was about to remove the prospective bridegroom by force when the boy drew a revolver, held his father at distance, leveled the weapon at Squibb Philip Robert and ordered him to proceed with the ceremony. After the marriage the father swore out a warrant, alleging that the boy was but 19 and had perjured himself to get the license.

The spider has a tremendous appetite, and his gormandizing defies all human competition. A scientist, who carefully noted a spider's consumption of food in twenty-four hours, concluded that if the spider were built proportionately to the human scale he would eat at daybreak, approximately, a small alligator, by 7 a. m. a lamb, by 9 a. m. a calf, and by one o'clock a sheep, and would finish up with a tank-plug in which there were 120 birds.

MODERATOR MADE A STRONG APPEAL

FOR SEIZING OF "UNOCCUPIED POSSESSIONS" OF CHURCH, OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

Rev. Morrison, Chicago, Gave Address on "Present Day Evangelism"—Rev. Jennings of Detroit, Not Here.

About a hundred ministers, their wives and lay delegates from the Presbyterian churches of the state were at the opening session of the Synod yesterday afternoon. The sermon of the Moderator that opened the meeting was contrary to the general rule, short; it was to the point and showed to the eyes of the minds of those present the "unoccupied possessions" of the church and a possible means of occupation. The administration of the Lord's Supper at which Moderator Adams presided, assisted by Rev. T. S. Anderson, of Marinette, and Rev. J. L. Marquis, of Neenah, was partaken. The elders to assist were E. P. Marsh, of Neenah; James Lamb, of Janesville; De Wit Van Ostrand, of Phillips, and Judge Hand, of Racine.

Officers Elected. Regular business was then performed and officers for the coming year elected. Rev. J. W. Roth, D. D., of Cedar Grove, was chosen to succeed Rev. Adams as Moderator; Rev. C. A. Adams, of Crandon, was selected for the place of Stated Clerk; Rev. L. P. Peeke, of Fond du Lac, Permanent Clerk, and Temporary Clerks, Rev. Ernest Henke, of Wausau, and Rev. H. O. Moore, of Milwaukee.

Moderator Rev. C. A. Adams chose for the topic of the sermon the last clause of Hebrews XIII, "There remaineth yet much land to be possessed." He said in short: Hebrews had been for some time in the promised land, had made considerable progress in its subjugation when God reminded them that "Much land remaineth to be possessed." It reminded the Hebrews of the work yet to be done to meet the expectations of God; it was a warning against a too great self-complacency because of hostile people. The noblest desire that could have actuated the Hebrews was to meet God's expectations and possess themselves of all the promised land. The subsequent history of the Chosen People shows that their failure to fully occupy the lands and to complemently accept of license fee was responsible for much of their former failure.

Church Possessions. This incident prompts the inquiry: has the church of the twentieth century unoccupied possessions which may bring her failure and humiliation should she fail to seize them? It is pleasant to glory in past achievements than to contemplate that which remains to be done. The latter suggests toil, exertion, aggressiveness, possible sacrifices; the former, rest. Of course there is no hope of rest as regards our ability to do what we have already done. The church has a right to exult over her victories but in her exultation she has no right to forget that there are battles to be fought and possessions yet to be occupied. When a people or organization in the past has set its face toward the past instead of toward the future defeat has been their fate. So it would be with the church.

Are These Possessions? To some the theme "Unoccupied Possessions" may seem a misnomer, for how can anything be spoken of as a possession until it is occupied or possessed? But God had already given the whole of Palestine to Abraham and his seed; they simply had to occupy it and it belonged to them. So too our own day there is no problem yet to be solved in connection with the advance of the church that is not a problem relating to that already given us by God. The question is not the validity of the title but the occupation. There are three or four possessions that should be more fully occupied.

Organized Labor. First is the working people, especially organized labor, the so-called "masses." The Evangelical church is not reaching them. The doctrines of social democracy are extending and they are often Godless. The church is derided by many in this class and looked as a specific enemy of their prosperity. This should not be for the sake of him. There was a time when the church congregations were composed mostly of this class but it should not be that we are content to trust the solution of this problem to the providence of God. Prayer without effort is ineffectual. When old notes the growing bitterness between capital and labor, the widespread disturbances resulting from the sympathetic strike, the inconvenience, the augmented prices, the suffering and above all the principle of not permitting a man willing to work to do so, even if maltreatment has to be resorted to. All this is harder on the general public than on either one of the contending classes. The success of a strike oftentimes leads to another strike being called where the cause of the laborer is unjust.

Church the Remedy. When one sees these conditions if he be at all thoughtful he will be anxious to see an end of it all; that the employer and employee see their mutual as well as separate interests; that their interests are identical. What better remedy can be found than Christ's gospel? What could more effectually move the root of the whole trouble, namely selfishness. Christ commanded alone to neighbor as well as to God. This condition of love would solve the labor problem. The remedy is apparent but the patient can be induced to take it because he looks upon the hand that offers it as hostile to his interests. Here is one of the unoccupied possessions of the church. If these possessions are not occupied they will become like the unconquered peoples of Palestine became to the Hebrews—thorns in their sides and their gods a perpetual snare.

Reasons for Failure. The church has been offering the gospel to this class a long time but she has reached differently to Lazarus than to Dives. She has in her history, has been conservative and reforming, has ever met with fierce opposition. The church has counseled meekness, patience, submission as Christian virtues for Lazarus, but often has forgot to suggest to Dives that justice and equity were for him Christian virtues. Where organized labor has seen Dives patted by the church it has concluded that if the church was the patron of Dives, it could not be friendly to labor. The only solution of the labor problem outside the Christlike solution will be only an amicable and therefore not a lasting peace.

The Right Way. It will take more than one man to win this class for the church. It will take a special ambassador in every pulpit and one in every home. Not so much of the specific persuasion addressed to this class as of persuasion addressed to the occupants of the pews that the rich and the poor in them be moved by their mutual interest in Christ to have an interest in each other. The pew can sooner be convinced than the pulpit so therefore the pulpit should seek to move the pew.

Fraternity Field. Another unoccupied possession may be found in that field which the fraternal organizations are trying to fill. Many members of these organizations make the laws of them their only religion. They point to the many benefits conferred by the fraternal organizations in excess to those conferred by the church. In case of death if one finds himself in straits among a strange people the fraternal man asks does the church help like the badge of that organization. Not necessarily, and yet the teachings of Christ along these lines are most positive, more than any fraternity and broader, too.

Better Law of Church. Fraternities obligate us to do good to the other members, Christ to everybody. This field occupied by fraternities primarily belongs to the church. There are men practicing the principles of religion yet professing to be Christians. The only way by which the church can gain the members of fraternal organizations is to do the work of those organizations better. But the cry goes up that the church workers are already heavily laden; yet there should be more church workers; each one in the ranks of membership should be one. But such an increase of workers would also solve the problem of evangelization. The church fails to reach thousands and these thousands die unsaved—these thousands that Christ "bought with a price." The evangelistic work is a church alive, full of workers. A Dorcas in the pew is more eloquent than a Serpentine in the pulpit. The man or woman who daily lives Christ preaches a better evangelistic sermon than even a Chaplain. If the church did what the fraternities are doing they would take the place of the fraternities and offer for the thirsty; bread for the hungry; clothes for the naked; visits for the sick, and companions for the imprisoned, are the labors of those who wish to conquer in this field.

Home Missions. Finally there is another unoccupied possession, the home mission field. Two years ago the church began in earnest to occupy this possession. They have since been trying to seize Wisconsin for Christ. There, too, the church cannot afford to look back upon their conquests but should look forward with fresh courage. There are the sons and daughters of the settlers to be looked after and in northern Wisconsin there are large areas without a church of any denomination and as the growth of that portion from a wilderness and forest to cities and towns and farms, it is evident that men and money will be needed in the work here for years. Here yet are large unoccupied possessions. Success in the evangelistic movement means that the cities shall in time team with God-fearing people, farms will be peopled by men and women whose God is the Lord. In that day strikes will be unknown; the iniquities of a Hurley undreamed of; for every man will seek that which is right in the eyes of the Lord.

Rev. W. B. Jennings of Detroit was to speak last evening on "Present Day Evangelism" but upon his failure to come Dr. Morrison of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago was secured to deliver a sermon on the same subject. Word was not sent until eleven yesterday morning. The keynote of his talk was that the Christians in the church rather than the ministers in pulpits should be the evangelistic mediums for the transmission of the gospel to those outside the church. It was a practical talk on the application of the teachings of Jesus Christ to the everyday life and an appeal to break away from the old conservative methods of church work. Rev. Morrison came to the Chicago church last spring from a parish in Canada where he had been for the previous ten years. His present pulpit is the one in which the Rev. John Henry Harrows who was for many years president of Oberlin college and who died a few years ago, preached.

Gavel Presented. According to custom a gavel was presented to the newly elected Moderator but the presentation was deferred until last night. Rev. Henderson who had the gavel made, spoke a few words concerning the history of the wood it was composed of and its fitness. Half of the head of the gavel was wood taken from the old desk in Carroll college which was found several years ago. It had proved to be the initials of Rev. Thompson who gives an address in the meeting this evening. The oak is from the old Presbyterian church in this city which is now being used as a windmill factory, making it possible for people to draw power from the sky as did the church make it possible for people to draw spiritual power from the skies years ago. The pine in the handle comes from the old church building in Portage where the first meeting of the Wisconsin Synod was held and there the synod was organized. The gavel was made in the manual training department of the high school, polished in one of the furniture factories in the city, and lettered by a young man closely connected with the Y. M. C. A., thus representing two of Janesville's institutions which are for the betterment of the people. It also represents the manufacturing industries of Janesville.

ROCKFORD DROPPED FROM III LEAGUE

On the Grounds of Non Support, and Peoria Was Substituted—May Get Into Courts.

Rockford has been thrown out of the "Three I" league and there is already some talk of organizing an inter-state league next season which shall include teams from the Forest city, Janesville, and Beloit. This talk, however, does not come from Rockford. The action of the annual meeting of the clubs at Springfield yesterday in dropping our neighbors and substituting Peoria has brought forth a wall of protest from Rockford and it is probable the injunction proceedings will be commenced at once to compel the league to rescind its action. Rockford was thrown out on the ground of failure to support the visiting teams. It is alleged that the action of the board was illegal on the ground that the Rockford franchise was for five years and will not expire for three years. The directors of the Rockford club claim they have met all obligations, and for this reason the matter will be taken into court. It is probable that a petition for mandamus will be filed in the Rockford courts tomorrow. The old officers were re-elected as follows: president, Edward Hoffman of Bloomington; vice president, James T. Hayes of Duvergne. The old president also was re-elected secretary and treasurer. It was voted to allow each club $300 from the sinking fund of the league, leaving $3,500 in the treasury. The league was never in better condition, and every club, with the exception of Rockford, made money. Springfield won the pennant, led in the matter of paid admissions and made more money than any other club. The annual league banquet was held last night at the Leland hotel, at Springfield, at which time the cup was formally presented to Springfield. The schedule will be arranged at a meeting to be held about Jan. 1 in Chicago.

COURT DISMISSED THE DUDLEY CASE

Jury Held That Aged Lady had No Cause for Action Against Her Son.

After being out ten minutes, the jury of six which tried the action brought by Mrs. Cynthia Dudley, aged eighty years, against her son Dr. E. H. Dudley, to recover a salary of $60 for work alleged to have been performed at his South Main street home, rendered a verdict in Justice Earle's court at five o'clock yesterday afternoon that there was no cause for action, and the case was dismissed. L. C. Brewer, one of the Jurymen, said this morning: "There was not an iota of testimony to show that the plaintiff did any work other than that which any old lady might do to pass away the time. The telegraph student, Henry Godis, who worked at the Dudley home, testified that at once after her washing dishes and at another time picking a cucumber. But on the other hand there were several witnesses who swore that she was not required to do any labor and that she had a pleasant home. The old lady is feeble and childish and our sympathies as a jury went out to her on that account. But her talk was disconnected and it was plain to be seen that she had been led on by sympathy. She acknowledged that work had been sent to her that she would be welcome to her room and board again any time she wished to return. The jury was unanimous in its opinion that there was absolutely no cause for action." M. P. Richardson represented the plaintiff and M. O. Mount the defendant. The jury consisted of L. C. Brewer, George Hatch, John Fulton, John Boyce, James Harper, and C. F. Lester.

BEETS COMING IN FOR THE FACTORY

Joseph Wagner Delivered the First Load—Getting Pulp Drier Ready.

Joseph Wagner of this city delivered the first load of sugar beets to the new factory. They were grown near the Field bridge-way and were of excellent quality. Providing the beets that have been ordered in from this vicinity the present week are delivered, the factory will soon start work. The sheds have a ground of 400x200 feet and a capacity of 20,000 tons. The pulp drier is being gotten in readiness so that the by-product may be turned to good use and shipped east at the rate of two carloads a day when the factory gets underway in the manufacture of sugar. There will be two shifts of men working twelve hours seven days in the week, excepting six hours each Sunday when the machinery will be cleaned. It is expected that 40,000 tons will be used this year—the daily minimum capacity being 600 tons and the maximum, 900.

IS THE TOGA TO BE PLEDGED NOW?

RUMOR THAT THE GOVERNOR IS AFTER SENATORSHIP.

CLAIMS MADE HE IS ASKING IT

Latest Report From the Seat of War Is That the Governor is Breaking Down Under the Strain.

(By Staff Correspondent.) Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—Is the governor seeking to secure pledges of the coming legislators that he be elected United States senator to succeed Charles? This question is heard on every hand this morning. The exposing of this plan appeared in the Sentinel this morning and in several of the Chicago papers. Pledges in writing it is alleged are being asked for from nominees for the legislature throughout the state. If this is true the question is asked: Where is Stephenson? Where is Connors? Where are a half dozen others who had aspirations for the toga? It is known that the campaign funds are running dangerously near the limits and that more money is not easily obtained. Is this the cause? The state is being flooded with speakers—big and little, and it takes money to run such a campaign. Thus far personal contributions have helped along but now the dividing of the ways seems to have come.

A Bomb Shell. Before Mr. Cortelyou gets through with his dicker with the administrative state central committee he may have a humble himself mightily. It is said on authority that Cortelyou has sent a letter to Chairman Connors to stop knifing republican congressmen. The Sheffield ticket is thought will be taken out of the field and in return for this service of the national committee the state administration committee is ordered to turn in and fight for Babcock, Minor, and all the congressmen who were affiliated with the other movement and not knife them. These are Mr. Cortelyou's orders. Here comes the rub. Mr. Connor in an interview published this morning stated that he did not know whether Babcock and Minor were republicans, national republicans or democrats; that the state central committee of which he was a member would support every republican nominated. Lt. Gov. Davidson stated that he supposed Babcock and Minor were not national but at republican conventions but he did not seem enthusiastic over the prospects of assisting them.

That Forty-Five Per Cent

That forty-five per cent proposition is still sticking in the crops of many of the politicians. It will be remembered that Governor La Follette's brother went on record in Minneapolis recently with a statement that only forty-five per cent of his brother's adherents would vote for Roosevelt. This may be true. Roughly estimating, this means that the national ticket will run a mighty close race. It was estimated at democratic headquarters this morning that if La Follette was re-elected it would be by democratic votes. The democratic committee is discouraged. It does not seem able to hold its party together. Senator Vilas made a stirring appeal to the "fair-minded" to return to the democratic fold at Waukesha last night and speaks again in this city tonight. Great things are expected to happen in the next few weeks. One disappointment came with the announcement that Carl Shultz would not speak in the present campaign. Another was that the possibility of securing William Jennings Bryan is remote, owing to the fact he is so much needed in Indiana and New York state.

He Breaking Down. Word comes from Racine that the governor is breaking down under the strain he has been under. It will be remembered some time ago that he was reported to have been compelled to speak in darkened halls owing to the weight of the night's upon his eyes. Now comes the word that he is not able to sleep nights. He spoke in Racine last night, being introduced by Congressman Cooper, who made the statement that he had been warned he would lose votes by this action but he did not care. His speech was radical in the extreme and he has now stepped into the open, feeling secure in the recognition of the La Follette state central committee by the national committee.

PARR FAILED TO THROW RUHLAND

In the Ten-Minute Exhibition Contest Last Night—Schott Finished in Thirty Eight

Reinhold Schott, of Watertown, met another Waterloo in his contest with Jim Parr, the Englishman, at the Myers theatre last night—and a shorter one at that. Last Friday evening Parr took 76 minutes to finish his antagonist. Last night, according to the watches of the audience the trick was turned in 38 minutes—according to the official time-keeper, 48 minutes. The time-keeper and the audience differed on the first throw, the former allowing 24 minutes and the latter fourteen. The second throw required 16 minutes and the third eight. In the preliminary Parr failed to secure a pin-fall on John J. Ruhland of this city in a ten-minute exhibition match. Charlie Blow and George Hessner, two fourteen-year old lads of this city, put up a lively series of contests, the first named winning two out of three falls. After his contest with Johnson at Rockford this evening and with "Farmer" Burns at the same place Friday evening, Parr returns to Ellington, New York, to settle up some "business" in which he is indirectly concerned. Much regret is felt that a match could not have been arranged with Beale of Marshfield who did such good work with the "Terrible Turk" a few years ago. "Billy" Mason of this city acted as referee last night.

FOOTBALL MEN ON A STRIKE TODAY

Politics Said To Have Entered Into the Picking of Players at University.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Madison, Wis.—Are Arthur H. Curtis, Charles H. Kilpatrick, Andrew M. O'Dea and others trying to operate a system to control the university athletic department or are "Vanderboom, Grogan, Clark and other leading football players simply quitters? One or the other situation exists at the university. Football matters at Wisconsin are in the worst condition that they have ever been. "Vanderboom quit the team yesterday. The withdrawal of Findlay from the squad had back of it more significance than a mere difference with Coach Cochran. It has now developed that Findlay's action is the result of a feud between players and coaches that bids fair to break up the team unless matters are adjusted. The fight is over the alleged interference of Coach Curtis in the athletic board election Monday evening. By the constitution of the board vacancies are filled by the board itself. Six vacancies occurred last spring and the board proceeded to fill them in the manner prescribed. The old members of the board are Bush, Bertke, and Wraetz. These members met Monday night and elected the following new members: Miller and Van Meter of the crew; Leahey, of the baseball team; Brekretz of the track team, and Brush and Daniels at large.

The football men have no representation in the new members of the board. This has stirred up a hue and cry among the football men, the result of which cannot now be foreseen. Some say it is no secret that Coach Curtis used his influence to have his men elected to the board, but the coach says "hat he did not with the best of intentions. Some football men charge that Curtis wishes to secure a majority of the board in order to be elected coach for next year. This is not probable, however, as Curtis has stated time and again that he will not accept the position under any circumstances.

Curtis' friends say that by his action he wished to patch up the differences between the football men and the crew, by giving the crew a just representation on the board. It is said that Captain Bush was in favor of appointing to the board only enough members to give a quorum, and to allow the students to elect the other members. In this event it is certain that at least one football man would be elected. Curtis objected to this and proceeded to complete the board in the usual manner.

The withdrawal of Vanderboom, it is feared, will be followed by the retirement of Clark and Grogan. This would demoralize the team. The action of Curtis has aroused the ire of the players and they are loud in their condemnation of the coach. Some even go so far to say that in order to hold the team together it will be necessary to get rid of the coach. In all the fight the action of Captain Bush receives the praise of all Wisconsin students. Bush is nearly frantic over the condition of affairs, but is exerting every effort to bring about an understanding between the aggrieved players and the coaches. Robinson and Kemp recently had a dispute of some kind and agreed to fight it out, as a Queensbury. This was done in the university gymnasium and Kemp received one sympathetic black eye and the other was slightly discolored. Robinson has gone to Milwaukee.

Robinson, one of the leading candidates for halfback, before leaving for Milwaukee, declared that he gave up the chase for a position on the varsity team because his father is a stalwart and no consideration was given him for a place on the team. He said he was not given any chance by the coaches to show what he could do at football and he left because there was no use in remaining. Assistant Coach T. E. Cochran is a brother of the secretary of the La Follette committee and it is apparent that politics has been injected even into the development of the university football team.

...LINK AND PIN... News for the Railroad Men.

Officials of the Illinois Central railroad yesterday secured the incorporation of two branch roads or cut-offs in the Calumet district. One was the Kensington & Eastern railroad company, with $5,000 capital, to build a road from near the Kensington station to the Illinois Central to a point on the state line between Illinois and Indiana, near Shore & Eastern road, owned by the steel trust. The second new corporation is styled the Indiana & Kensington railroad company, also with $5,000 capital, to build a line northwesterly from a point near Hammond to the Illinois Central tracks near Kensington.

The Catlin & Northern Railway company was incorporated today, with the principal office in Danville and a capital stock of $2,500. The road is to be constructed from the village of Catlin on the Wabash to the village of Oakwood on the Big Four. The proposed line will tap a new coal field.

Within two weeks the double tracking of the Fort Wayne line of the Pennsylvania system will be completed between Chicago and Pittsburg, and fully equipped with block signals. Having the Fort Wayne and Panhandle line, the Pennsylvania for years has considered a double track line between Chicago and Pittsburg, and the completion of the second Fort Wayne track will give the Pennsylvania system three tracks to Pittsburg. It is proposed to double track the Panhandle line between here and Columbus within a few years. When that is done the Pennsylvania will be a four track system between Chicago and Pittsburg.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness. That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the harbinger of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newborn's Hairdressing kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance. Trierpelle is now used by thousands of people—so satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market, to-day.

Coming Attractions.

Williams and Walker, the Royal comedians, with Lottie Williams and Ada Walker and a large company of colored artists have returned from their triumphant and successful trip to Europe. While in London, performing at the Shaftesbury Theatre, they were commanded to appear before the king and queen of England. Very few performers have

It will be seen that Mr. Williams and Mr. Walker and their brilliant wives, Mrs. Lottie Williams and Ada Walker, as well as their supporting company have not lost any of the old charm or company in Washington Irving's masterpiece "Rip Van Winkle" will no doubt be greeted by one of the largest audiences ever seen in the opera house when it appears there on Saturday, as it will be one of the exceptional events of the season. To see this grand old play put on the stage in genuine Jeffersonian style and to witness Mr. Jefferson's admirable performance of that dear, delightful, lovable old vagabond "Rip" is a treat that will remain fresh in the minds of our people and be referred to with pleasant recollections for a long time to come.

From sire to son the names of Jefferson and "Rip Van Winkle" will live and be classed among the best in theatricals, as the mantle of genius which has been handed down for five generations, has fallen to Thomas Jefferson, the fifth, and he has proven himself a worthy successor to his great fat, choleric, fwy-son, who is still the most admitted actor of the American stage, and to the other great Jeffersons who have gone before.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 12, 1864.—Looking Car Doors.—Since the late accident on the Pennsylvania road in which a number of lives were lost looks have been arranged on the cars which open from the inside only. The object of having the cars locked is to keep away passengers from getting in with through passengers which would thereby render it necessary for all passengers to show their tickets at every station, thereby giving an extra amount of trouble to both passengers and conductors.

Promotion.—Lieut. D. A. Lowber, of the city, has been appointed to the captaincy of Co. 37, Wis. Infantry. The regiment has been under fire several times the last few weeks and stood nobly to the work. It is at the present stationed on the railroad near Petersburg.

Felted Made In Polynesia.
Felted was invented by Polynesian savages, and brought by the Hawaiian natives to a perfection we have never excelled. They not only made coverings for their houses and blankets out of felt, but by pounding the inner bark of certain trees succeeded in producing soft and comfortable seamless garments of this material, such as sleeveless coats and cloaks.

C. S. Nearly, Omaha—Rheumatism and kidney troubles have entirely left me. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea made me well and strong. 35 cents, tea or tablets. Smith Drug Co.

School Shoes

Made expressly for romping, tearing school children. The sole leather used in these shoes is the toughest in the world. Uppers made of specially tanned calf—every seam sewed to hold. Ask your dealer for Mayer school shoes and look for the trade-mark stamped on the sole.

We also make "Honorbill" shoes for men and "Western Lady" shoes for women.

The Best Suit Styles

No question but what here is the place to find them. Whether you want a suit at ten or twelve dollars or one at thirty you can find it here and of the right kind, right materials, right styles of coats, right fullness of skirts, all the little details looked after. Another shipment in this week of late models in both fitted-back and full coat suits. That $15 suit, full satin lined coats, new skirt in blue, black and brown is much the best in town at the price.

Tourist Coats

Their popularity is already established and for a sensible all around garment they represent the most practical style that has been brought out in many seasons. Ten dollars is a popular price and one at which we show a number of natty styles, others up to $25. For all the new things in coats its only necessary to visit our department.

NO APOLOGIES TO OFFER.

Not satisfied with the endorsement of the national republican committee the governor demands an apology for the action of the national convention last June in refusing to recognize his delegates as expelled to a seat in the convention.

For pure and unadulterated rail this caps the climax and even Chairman Cortelyou possessed political sense enough to recognize it.

The national committee has made blunders enough in dealing with Wisconsin, and can afford to rest on its laurels. Six weeks ago and the very day that arguments were being presented to the supreme court, this committee issued an edict to the effect that neither faction would be recognized in Wisconsin until after the supreme court decision, ignoring the fact that the convention, which created the committee, had already passed on the case and by unanimous vote endorsed the opera house convention and its delegates as the only republican delegates in the state.

This edict was used to advantage and may have influenced the action of the court. The much discussed decision which led to final recognition of La Follette and La Folletteism, was no decision at all. It was simply the interpretation of a defective law which made the action of an unprincipled state central committee supreme.

Yet, on this flimsy pretext, the national committee accords recognition and by so doing insults Senator Spooner and every republican in the state.

This insult is so keenly felt that it is a severe test of loyalty, and the national ticket may suffer in consequence. It might be well for the national committee to remember that the man whom they have endorsed is busily engaged in an effort to defeat every republican candidate in the state who is opposed to his methods. From congressmen to county officers, every man is spotted and alliances with democrats are formed wherever necessary to accomplish his vindictive purpose.

The republicans of the state refuse to recognize this man or his methods as republican and the same sentiment was entertained by the national convention when it declared the convention that nominated him irregular.

The president was assured by Senator Spooner that the national ticket was not in danger and he should have been satisfied to keep his hands off the state and prevented his committee from adding insult to injury by the action recently taken.

The republicans of the state elected a clear majority to represent them at the state convention. They were deprived of their rights by the rank and file ever perpetrated on any party and the protest filed was sustained by the national party. To set aside this protest is a defiance of republican sentiment that but few men would have the hardihood to attempt and yet this is what has been done by the national committee either on its own authority or acting under advice from headquarters.

The governor, said to the party last may: "I've got you by the throat and propose to hang on," and now the national committee comes to his relief and says, "Tighten the grip and we'll see you through."

These are the conditions which confront the party today in Wisconsin. With a governor who has disrupted the party and who is doing all in his power to demolish it, backed up by the Bryan and Hearst democracy and idolized by men and writers whose Americanism is so theoretical as to be unsafe and dangerous, this man now receives the endorsement of the national committee and is told to go ahead and complete his work of destruction.

It is all a mistake and time will demonstrate that the good name of the state was ruthlessly sacrificed.

A SORRY SPECTACLE.

The republicans of Orfordville were regaled Monday evening by a tirade from County Clerk Starr. This gentleman poses as a republican and has been several times honored by the party which he now defames. He is a full fledged disciple of La Folletteism and as such has taken upon himself the responsibility of denouncing Senator Whitehead and supporting the democratic ticket.

In doing this he is following in the footsteps of his illustrious leader who is traveling over the state engaged in the same mission. The over-zealous county clerk does not hope to accomplish Senator Whitehead's defeat for he has sense enough left to know that that can't be done. Just what he expects in the way of a bonus has not been announced but a seat on the band wagon may put him in line for a game warden's badge or some other position.

The governor takes care of his friends.

This episode at Orfordville means the opening of an aggressive campaign in Rock county to defeat if possible republican candidates now in the field. Every man in the state who does not bow submissively to the will of the Czar at Madison, is a marked man, and any democrat in the state is good enough to defeat him, if he happens to be running for office.

This is La Folletteism masquerading under the guise of republicanism. It is the most damnable farce ever perpetrated on a party. The republicans of Rock county are not fools and they are not yet in their dotage. The men nominated for county and legislative offices are representative republicans placed before the people by a vote which had no uncertain sound and which even the governor did not attempt to contest.

These candidates will receive the solid republican votes of their constituents, and they will be opposed by the democratic vote, and as much of the La Follette vote as the governor can control. They will be elected because Rock county republicanism is noted for loyalty and conservatism. The county has never been carried away by the governor and his erratic theories and it never will be.

Senator Whitehead and Captain Norcross are republicans and the party will honor itself by honoring them on election day.

It is reported that the governor is coming into Rock county on a speaking tour. It is safe to predict that Senator Whitehead and Captain Norcross will receive some attention. He would rather see two democrats in the legislature than the gentlemen who will represent Rock county at Madison next winter.

Senator Whitehead is denounced for what? For being a man possessing the courage of conviction and the ability to defend the right? That's a crime of the first magnitude in the eyes of the governor.

Give the governor the primary law and he will perpetrate himself in office until he wears out the state house furniture.

Vote for every republican on the ticket but use your own judgment as to where to draw the line.

When that $11,000,000 is all expended the democratic party will be a little shy of votes.

Who is clamoring for a change this year? Democracy. Why the clamor?

The West is prosperous and happy and the republican party fills the bill.

The nation has no use for either free trade or free silver.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Cheer up! Four weeks from tomorrow the campaign in Wisconsin will be only a thing of memory.

Atchison Globe: A vigorous good-natured old man is greatly admired,

"After all, there is nothing like
DR. PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
I have used it with satisfaction for nearly forty years."

until he marries a young wife.

Wausau Record: There is one thing sure, the people of Wisconsin know where Edward Scofield stands on the doodlebook. So does Purcell.

Marion Advertiser: We make note that The Fox River Journal is again becoming wormy. He is bilious if we notice him and becomes more so if we don't. Quite a little Boblett thumb-screw is The Journal.

Racine Journal: It is being suspected by some close observers that the vast number of Wisconsin republicans are not torn up quite so much as some might like to believe. There is a rich fund of saving common sense yet left.

Superior Telegram: It looks as if the St. Louis flying machine was in working order after all. The correspondents tell about a man from Illinois who went up in the air the other day when his board bill at the fair was presented.

Racine News: There are those who now think that the kerosene motor will displace both steam and electricity on our railways. This will be luck for the poor Standard Oil company if it should prove true.

Kaneas City Star: The latest achievement of the jocular friends of a newly married couple was to slip a pair of handcuffs on the groom's wrist at the beginning of the wedding journey. Some time a complete triumph is going to be achieved by cleverly poisoning both bride and groom at the wedding supper.

Oakshosh Northwestern: Probably there are a good many republicans in this state who feel like the local member of that party who explains the situation by saying: "The republicans of Wisconsin are certainly in a pack of trouble this year, and the best thing they can do is to vote for it."

Madison Journal: When the Cortelyou crowd get to know the selfish, unresponsive and knock-down spirit and methods of the La Follette crowd they will regret giving them an all for they will take an inch and a foot. There is no give and take about them; no sense of gratitude. They will insidiously get Cortelyou under their foot and then step on him. He will recall the eagle slain by a dart feathered from his own breast. La Follette is making his plans for a brand of national republicanism as he has evolved a new type of populist favor in Wisconsin.

SAYS THAT KANSANS ARE CRAZY

Iowa Professor Explains Idiosyncrasy by Geography.

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 12.—"Western Kansas," said Prof. Wilcox of the department of history of the University of Iowa, in an address to his students, "is more than half of the time crazy, and it is crazy, I declare to you, because of its geographical position. It is not just where it is, it is in all likelihood because as any other part of the country. History is more often determined by the geographical position of the countries in which it is made than by acts of men high in the power of governments. The Alps have had more to do with shaping the political ends and complexions of Europe than have the acts of any rulers or despots, however great or powerful."

Fourteen Years for Abduction.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 12.—For abducting his 2-year-old son from his divorced wife and fleeing the state in disregard of the court's order Elmer um, a wealthy Kokomo dairyman, is sentenced to the penitentiary for fourteen years by Judge Elliott.

MYSTERY OF AN UNWELCOME BABE

DELIVERY MADE AT NIGHT

By Mysterious Man and Woman Who Had Two More Children in Wagon—Responded to an "Ad."

Has the business of getting rid of unwelcome babes in stock county been syndicated? Poor Commissioner Kenyon doesn't know, but wishes he did. Yesterday he was called to the home of Fred L. Greene, in Edgerton and asked to take charge of a three-months' old boy. The family had taken the infant on the understanding that a certain stipulated compensation was to be paid. That was some weeks ago. Hearing no word and receiving no money from the parties who delivered the little stranger into their hands and being unable to bear the expense themselves, the Greenes sought relief from the authorities. Mr. Kenyon says that he cannot take the responsibility of sending the babe to a foundlings' home until further facts with regard to the case are made clearer.

On Tuesday, Sept. 13, a rather heavy built woman dressed in black and representing herself as acting for a friend, entered the Gazette office and ordered the following inserted in the Want Ad. column of the weekly of Wednesday, Sept. 14.

Wanted—A good respectable family to adopt or take a baby boy to raise. Address "W. B.," Gazette. The advertisement was again inserted shortly afterwards, at the request of a man. Some correspondence came for "W. B." and was delivered to persons who called for it. One of the replies was undoubtedly that sent by Mrs. Greene.

Had a Wagon Load.

On the evening of Friday, Sept. 23, a wagon drew up in front of the Greene home in Edgerton, the driver—a heavy built man, said "whoa," but later refused to furnish any further evidence that he was gifted with speech; and a heavy built woman dismounted and started to carry the infant child to the house. Mr. Greene came out to investigate while Mrs. Greene was making the necessary arrangements for the care of the child inside the house. He found two other children in the wagon—one a boy of four years, who said he came from Broadhead but would volunteer no other information. The driver answered a sphinx-like silence, answering no questions. Meanwhile, within the house, the agreement had been made—the strange woman promising that a liberal sum should be paid at stated intervals for the care of the child. The visitor climbed into the wagon, the driver whipped up the horses, and the rig disappeared in the darkness.

Received a Letter.

After several days had elapsed Mrs. Greene received a letter, written at Janesville and mailed at Beloit, purporting to be from the mother of the infant and signed "Mrs. Hattie Bogert." The writer inquired, solicitously for the welfare of the babe bidding the recipient take the utmost care, but said nothing about compensation. At the end she stated that she might be in either Janesville, Beloit or Rockford for a considerable period of time and could not give her permanent address until later. This was the last the Greene family heard from anyone connected with the mystery. They are in somewhat straitened circumstances and cannot afford to take care of the child for nothing, even if they were disposed to do so. Poor Commissioner Kenyon is in a quandary.

Fire escapes manufactured by the Rock River Machine Co. are being adjusted to the Myers theatre building today. One leads from the gallery to the street and the other from the rear of the building to the rear. Manager Myers says that the work would have been done earlier had he not been engaged in making interior improvements during the summer. The Rock River Machine Co. made the escapes used at the State School for the Blind.

BIG DECREASE IN DIVORCE DECREES

Twenty-Nine Less, Granted in Rock Co. for Year Ending Sept. 1, Than in Preceding Period.

Strange as it may seem Rock county's divorce mill has been grinding steadily less during the past three years. This may be a contributing factor in enlarging Judge Dunwiddie's circuit. At the last session of the legislature an act was passed providing for the appointment of five commissioners to secure information on the volume of legal business transacted and plans for re-districting the judicial circuits and equalizing as far as possible the work of circuit judges. The number of divorces granted in Rock county between Sept. 1, 1901 and Sept. 1, 1902, was 84; for the succeeding year, 69; and for the past year, ending Sept. 1, 40.

JOHN TRIES THE LATEST METHODS

Our World's Fair Visitors View the Wonderful Tribes Who Wear No Hats.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—I wouldn't be surprised if John acquired the hatless habit as a result of his visit to this fair. Even now I find him removing his hat at every opportunity. He has been looking at the thick shocks of shaggy hair that adorn the heads of the Aborigines that are so numerous here. They all go bareheaded and none of them is troubled with baldness or falling hair. The Indians, the Alaskans, Eskimos, Gull Dwellers, Filipinos, Patagonians, giants and African pygmies have no need of hats or hair tonics. I am glad John is at last seeing something interesting and instructive in these Aborigines. He at first declared he could see no excuse for making them.

One might get the impression from the big disappearing guns mounted behind stone walls to the right as you enter the government building that Uncle Sam is a great fighter, a very bloodthirsty personage, eager to destroy human beings. Once inside the building, however, you discover that most of his activities relate to the maintenance of the peace and to the promotion of the welfare of the people. At the same time Uncle Sam is ready for trouble and it is interesting to note the formidable character of his defense. Here is a 12-inch disappearing gun which will throw a 1,000-pound projectile eighteen miles and directly after dropping this trifling little reminder of friendship and good feeling it quickly falls down behind a fort and gets ready to repeat the compliment. In the operation of throwing one projectile it uses up 270 pounds of powder. The machinery which enables this "peace-maker" to raise itself and "peek" over the fort long enough to belch forth a 1,000-pound shell and then "duck" back again is a marvel of ingenious mechanism, working so smoothly that it is under the absolute control of one man. Near it is a six-inch rapid-fire disappearing gun which takes its rounds over the fort in the same fashion, tosses a shell nine miles, and then drops back again out of sight of the enemy.

Returning to the government building we made a tour of inspection of the beautiful model of the battleship "Missouri" which is one-eighth the size of the original. All its compartments and ornaments are complete in every detail, the real guns of the navy being used. A section of an armor-piercing naval gun is shown, the original of which cost $53,000 and which uses up $600 worth of material every time it is discharged. Uncle Sam also exhibits perfect models of all the battleships and cruisers in the navy.

In this building is the exhibit of the Smithsonian Institution and the National Museum, which includes specimens of nearly the entire animal kingdom. Here is the horned dinosaur; the African elephant and the skeleton of a mastodon found in a peat deposit in Michigan, also the skeleton of a whale found on the coast of New Foundland, which is 89 feet long and whose skull alone is nearly 20 feet long. Here we saw the "armored dinosaur," a playful looking creature about the size of an elephant, with great horny fins on his back and horns on his head and tail. There is such a resemblance between his head and tail you can't tell which way he is going until you look at his toes. John says that he was built that way so "if anything escaped his horned head his horned tail was sure to get it."

In this building is also shown the entire development of the mail service from the mail coach and mounted mail carrier to the modern "fast mail" and the moving railway post office. This exhibit includes a Pennsylvania postal car in which men may be seen distributing and pouching the mails, and hundreds of other appliances that have assisted in making Uncle Sam's postal service the finest in the world.

RED BOUGHS AND YELLOW PUMPKINS

Were Used Effectively To Create Charming Scene at Foresters' Party.

Boughs of autumn leaves, ferns and cut flowers and potted plants, and bright yellow pumpkins smiling amid the greenery—reminders of the disappearing summer—created a scene of rare charm at Assembly hall last evening. There were easy chairs, a profusion of handsome rugs and pillows, and enchanting cozy corners which tempted the merry-makers to luxurious ease. It was an "Autumn party" given under the auspices of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters and over three hundred responded to the invitations. All who attended declared it to have been one of the most delightful social affairs within their recollections. In charge of the arrangements were: Mrs. J. W. McCue, Mrs. J. J. Kelley, Mrs. Ed. Donahue, Mrs. L. Knapp, Mrs. D. Dalby. The reception committee: Miss Katherine Kelley, Miss Alice Clark, Miss Nellie Ryan, Miss Katherine Cravin, Mrs. Boylen, Mrs. C. J. McDonald, Mrs. D. W. Hayes, Mrs. M. Murphy, Mrs. W. T. Dooley, Mrs. O'Donnell. Acting on the floor committee were: E. H. Connell, E. J. Schindley, Thomas Baker, Ed. Ryan, J. P. Joyce, Thomas Nolan, D. Kennedy.

QUARLES SPOKE IN BELOIT, ON

The National Issues—Greeted by a Large and Enthusiastic Audience.

Senator J. V. Quarles spoke in Beloit last night to a large audience whose sympathy was manifested in many ways. After discussing national issues and warning republicans of the danger from indifference, he devoted an hour to discussing the proposed primary election law, which he declared to be un-American and defective, and certain to concentrate political power. He said the poor man would have little show for a nomination, and described in a graphic manner the political machine, as it now exists in Wisconsin, and said that under the proposed bill the incumbent of the office of executive of Wisconsin could never be removed until he was ready.

Senator Quarles said that Congressman Sheppard of Texas had read the bill and compared it with the Texas law, and pronounced it bad for the people. The senator asked the vote, as to study the bill and not be led even for the love of any man to vote for something that will do a great political injury to the party. He said no party can live long that has no platform and the creation of a platform by candidates after their nomination was an absurdity.

He did not mention the governor's name, but sent a few shots in his direction. He said that, until the present party discussion, no distrust of republican conventions was ever heard. In the discussion the senator referred to the Stephens article, pronouncing the writer a professional liar, in such scathing words as to create a sensation. Three La Follette men applauded Stephens' name when it was first mentioned, but as the speaker progressed with his condemnation the audience applauded.

Senator Quarles asked the voters to support Congressman Cooper. He said that, while he and the congressmen differed on state issues, he honored him as a legislator and that the nation needs him. He asked also for the support of Senator Whitehead and Assemblyman Hansen. Mr. Whitehead was present. The mention of his name was met with long applause.

FLOYD & CRAWFORD WERE EXPELLED

From the Chicago Board of Trade Last Evening—Maintained Office Here Until Recently.

After a long session lasting until seven o'clock last evening, the Chicago Board of Trade last evening expelled Andrew S. Floyd and F. B. Crawford of the New York brokerage firm of Floyd, Crawford & Co., with offices in the New York City building. The action taken by the directors of the board was in consequence of the expulsion of these brokers from the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York on charges of making fictitious trades, commonly known as "bucket shopping." This concern formerly maintained an office in Janesville.

SURVEYORS WERE HERE YESTERDAY

After working to a fixed point northwest of the city they strike back across the country striking Lake Michigan at some point below Milwaukee. The party is in charge of George T. Hawkins and consists of Mr. Hawkins, B. S. Mankin, R. H. Martin, Charles Schultz, and F. Conroy. Mr. Mankin and Mr. Schultz are graduates of Missouri state university. Mr. Martin of the Wisconsin university, and Conroy is from Kenosha. The party will leave the state November 1 for northern Minnesota.

COLLEGE TO STAGE A GREEK DRAMA

Janesville People Will Go—Classical Department Instead of Sophomore's Class Has Charge.

Many Janesville people interested in Greek art and culture, will again be given a treat at Beloit this year, by the staging of one of the classical dramas. The classical department of the college has decided to give the Greek play for this year as a college instead of a sophomore class play. The custom has been in the past for the sophomore class to take charge of the rendition of the drama—the principal characters being selected from that class. But the number of those now electing Greek is smaller than previously because of the elective curriculum and this has necessitated a change in the yearly rendition of the Greek drama. Last spring the present junior class translated Sophocles' "Philoctetes" at "Aulus," which will be used this fall and they will be largely instrumental in pushing it forward. The meeting appointed an executive committee of five, two juniors, two sophomores and one freshman to begin the work, and after conference with Prof. Wright to report at a later time.

The college and the people of Beloit will be glad to know that the old Greek drama which has never been so enthusiastically received in former years will be resumed again. The play will be given probably just before the Christmas vacation.

The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by G. W. Dillingham Company

"No, no," he stammered, wondering how he was to get out of confessing about the opening of the front door without appearing rude.

"Nonsense! Confess! Confess, you silly man!"

But Leonard was too loyal. To lead her away from the point he asked a question. "Mrs. Ward, that yellow holly?"

"Yes. What about it?" She looked forward eagerly.

"Did you give a sprig of it to any one else?"

"No. I only gave a bit to my daughter, and she—"

"She gave it to Brendon. Yes, I know. But did Miss Ward give any of it to a third person?"

"Certainly not. To do so she would have had to get it from me. But he—"

"You are accusing Mr. Brendon," yond the sprig which was given, and which Mr. Brendon had, no holly went out of this house."

"It is very rare, is it not?"

"I believe so, I dare say there wasn't another bunch in London on that particular night. Of course there might have been; still—but why do you ask all this?"

"Well," said Leonard, "it seems to me that the yellow holly has something to do with the crime."

Mrs. Ward drew a long breath, but said no word. He was speaking half to himself, and she did not wish to interrupt his train of thought. But she listened with all her ears. Leonard continued: "I found a berry in the room where she was killed. Yes. They took us in to see the body, and a horrid sight it was. I turned my eyes to the floor, and there I saw—just by the table—a kind of amber bead. I dropped my handkerchief so that Quex might not suspect, and I picked it up. When in my own room I examined it. It was one of the yellow holly berries."

Mrs. Ward threw herself back with a kind of unholy triumph. "Do you know what you are saying, Mr. Train?" she said in a half whisper.

"You are accusing Mr. Brendon!"

"No, no," Train started to his feet. Mrs. Ward pulled him down again and pointed with her fan toward the bond.

"Hush! He might come out," she whispered. "But can't you see? Brendon wore the sprig in his coat on that night. He must have been in the room and have dropped the berry. What was he doing there if it was not for?"

"No," said Train hoarsely. "I half thought of that myself, but it is quite impossible, I tell you. He could not have got out of his room unless he had come to me."

"How do you mean?"

ous. I heard her talking of you and wishing to marry you. You see, I love her."

"So she told me."

"Quite so, and she informed me that she had informed you. Well, I was a little jealous, as I lay down my life to make that lady Mrs. Bawdsey. But when I learned that you admired and were almost engaged to Miss Ward—"

"You seem to know a great deal about me," said Brendon, nettled.

"I made it my business to find out, sir."

George looked at him helplessly. He found it difficult to understand what all this meant. "Of course I know, from what Loh said, that you are a private detective," he remarked, with hesitation.

"Vidocq & Co.," said Bawdsey briskly, "223 Augusta street, Strand. That's me, Mr. Brendon, but you needn't mention it in this slum."

"Will you answer a few questions, Mr. Bawdsey?" asked George.

"Yes. Fire ahead."

"You are a private detective?" asked George.

"That's no. Vidocq & Co.—an attractive title, I guess."

"And you were employed by Loh to watch me?"

"I was. Love will do anything for the object of its affections."

"Humph! There are different ways of looking at that. But you were also engaged by Lord Derrington to watch me?"

"How did Lord Derrington find out that I was passing under the name of George Brendon?"

"Well, sir, if you will shove advertisements into the paper asking about the celebration of the marriage of Percy Vane and Miss Rodham Lockwood you must expect to be dropped upon."

"And you looked me up?"

"Quite so. I have had you under observation for the last six months. Any more questions, sir?"

"Only one," replied George. "Will you tell me exactly what you are doing here?"

"Certainly. You shall have the whole story, Mr. Brendon, but in the first place I shall ask you a question in my turn. Do you know why I asked you to come and see me today?"

Brendon shook his head. "I have not the least idea," he confessed.

"I'll enlighten you," was the other man's reply. "To warn you that you are in danger of arrest."

"In danger of arrest?" George jumped up. "What do you mean?"

"Oh, my meaning is clear enough. There is a chance that you may be accused of having murdered Mrs. Jersey."

George dropped back into his chair with a white face. "You must be mad to say such a thing. Who accuses me?"

"Lord Derrington."

"On what grounds?"

"On certain information he obtained from Mrs. Ward. She is your bitter enemy. You see, Mr. Brendon, it is not her game that you should marry the daughter. Mrs. Ward knows that you are a clerkman with a will of your own and that she will not be able to twist you around her finger, which is what she wishes to do with any son."

"What Bawdsey was she never inquired, as she was the least curious of women. His habits were certainly eccentric, for sometimes he would remain away for a week and at other times would stop constantly in the house. He often remained in bed for the day and had his meals brought to him. This he called his bed cure and stated that he suffered from nerves. He told Miss Bull quite gratuitously that he had a small income. 'I am simple in my tastes,' said Mr. Bawdsey, 'and what I have keeps me in luxury. But a man even of my age must be up and doing. Better to wear out than rust out.'"

Miss Bull assented. She liked to hear Bawdsey tell of his travels, and frequently asked him into her sitting room for that purpose. He seemed to have been everywhere and to have seen everything. It appeared from his own confession that he began his travels at the early age of seventeen, when he went to Milan. And the man talked freely about himself—so freely that Miss Bull, in spite of her suspicious nature, never dreamed that all this chatter was for the purpose of throwing dust in her sharp eyes.

A week after the little dinner at Mrs. Ward's, Bawdsey sent a note to Brendon asking him to call on a certain afternoon, and when George, anxious to continue the acquaintance and curious to know how Bawdsey had procured his address, arrived, he was shown up to the well known room. Bawdsey welcomed him with enthusiasm and much in the same style as Loh did, but in a less theatrical manner.

"My preserver!" said Bawdsey, shaking hands vigorously, and George laughed.

"You put me in mind of a lady I know," he said. "She uses the same term—quite unnecessarily, as it happens."

"I don't agree with you," answered Bawdsey, to the astonishment of his visitor. "When a woman is rescued from starvation she has a right to call her good Samaritan the best of names."

"Oh," said Brendon, taking a seat. "So Loh has told you."

Bawdsey nodded. "I guess so," said he, with a pronounced American twang—somewhat too pronounced, George thought. "She told me all about your visit the other night."

"Did she never speak of me before?"

"Why, of course she spoke. I tell you, sir, that the girl is just bubbling over with gratitude."

"Yet you said when last we met that she meant me harm."

"Jealousy, Mr. Brendon, sheer jealousy."

"I heard her talking of you and wishing to marry you. You see, I love her."

"So she told me."

"Quite so, and she informed me that she had informed you. Well, I was a little jealous, as I lay down my life to make that lady Mrs. Bawdsey. But when I learned that you admired and were almost engaged to Miss Ward—"

"I made it my business to find out, sir."

George looked at him helplessly. He found it difficult to understand what all this meant. "Of course I know, from what Loh said, that you are a private detective," he remarked, with hesitation.

"Vidocq & Co.," said Bawdsey briskly, "223 Augusta street, Strand. That's me, Mr. Brendon, but you needn't mention it in this slum."

"Will you answer a few questions, Mr. Bawdsey?" asked George.

"Yes. Fire ahead."

"You are a private detective?" asked George.

"That's no. Vidocq & Co.—an attractive title, I guess."

"And you were employed by Loh to watch me?"

"I was. Love will do anything for the object of its affections."

"Humph! There are different ways of looking at that. But you were also engaged by Lord Derrington to watch me?"

"How did Lord Derrington find out that I was passing under the name of George Brendon?"

"Well, sir, if you will shove advertisements into the paper asking about the celebration of the marriage of Percy Vane and Miss Rodham Lockwood you must expect to be dropped upon."

"And you looked me up?"

"Quite so. I have had you under observation for the last six months. Any more questions, sir?"

"Only one," replied George. "Will you tell me exactly what you are doing here?"

"Certainly. You shall have the whole story, Mr. Brendon, but in the first place I shall ask you a question in my turn. Do you know why I asked you to come and see me today?"

Brendon shook his head. "I have not the least idea," he confessed.

"I'll enlighten you," was the other man's reply. "To warn you that you are in danger of arrest."

"In danger of arrest?" George jumped up. "What do you mean?"

"Oh, my meaning is clear enough. There is a chance that you may be accused of having murdered Mrs. Jersey."

George dropped back into his chair with a white face. "You must be mad to say such a thing. Who accuses me?"

"Lord Derrington."

"On what grounds?"

"On certain information he obtained from Mrs. Ward. She is your bitter enemy. You see, Mr. Brendon, it is not her game that you should marry the daughter. Mrs. Ward knows that you are a clerkman with a will of your own and that she will not be able to twist you around her finger, which is what she wishes to do with any son."

"What Bawdsey was she never inquired, as she was the least curious of women. His habits were certainly eccentric, for sometimes he would remain away for a week and at other times would stop constantly in the house. He often remained in bed for the day and had his meals brought to him. This he called his bed cure and stated that he suffered from nerves. He told Miss Bull quite gratuitously that he had a small income. 'I am simple in my tastes,' said Mr. Bawdsey, 'and what I have keeps me in luxury. But a man even of my age must be up and doing. Better to wear out than rust out.'"

Miss Bull assented. She liked to hear Bawdsey tell of his travels, and frequently asked him into her sitting room for that purpose. He seemed to have been everywhere and to have seen everything. It appeared from his own confession that he began his travels at the early age of seventeen, when he went to Milan. And the man talked freely about himself—so freely that Miss Bull, in spite of her suspicious nature, never dreamed that all this chatter was for the purpose of throwing dust in her sharp eyes.

A week after the little dinner at Mrs. Ward's, Bawdsey sent a note to Brendon asking him to call on a certain afternoon, and when George, anxious to continue the acquaintance and curious to know how Bawdsey had procured his address, arrived, he was shown up to the well known room. Bawdsey welcomed him with enthusiasm and much in the same style as Loh did, but in a less theatrical manner.

"My preserver!" said Bawdsey, shaking hands vigorously, and George laughed.

"You put me in mind of a lady I know," he said. "She uses the same term—quite unnecessarily, as it happens."

"I don't agree with you," answered Bawdsey, to the astonishment of his visitor. "When a woman is rescued from starvation she has a right to call her good Samaritan the best of names."

"Oh," said Brendon, taking a seat. "So Loh has told you."

BEARING DOWN PAINS

3647 Indiana Avenue.

CHICAGO, ILL., Sept. 27, 1902.

I have been a sufferer with almost every kind of female trouble for years, but as long as I could get around and do my work I would not try patent medicines as I had no faith in them.

About eight months ago I had to take to my bed, suffering with prolapsus of the uterus, with bearing down pains and intense pains in the back. My aunt, who came to nurse me, told me of Wine of Cardui and sent for a bottle. I am indeed glad that she did, for that first bottle started me on the road to recovery. In a few weeks I was out of bed and in three months I was in better health and stronger than I had been in years. I take now, occasionally, of Wine of Cardui and am kept in perfect health.

Wine of Cardui brings certain relief to women suffering any symptom of female weakness and perfectly regulates the menstrual flow. Wine of Cardui stops bearing down pains by permanently relieving the irritation which weakens the ligaments holding the womb in place. You need not suffer every month if you take this medicine. The periodical discharge will be painless and healthy without continual weakening drains. Wine of Cardui will make your health right and you may treat yourself privately in your own home. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today.

WEE BROTHER SLAYS SISTER

WANTED THE BABE TO GO AWAY

Left Alone with the Little One He Attacks Her with a Statuette, Then Calls His Mother to Gaze Upon the Corpse.

New York, Oct. 12.—When a new baby arrives the happy mother sometimes says to her other children, whom, like the new baby, she loves with all her heart: "Your nose is out of joint."

To use a homely, motherly expression, small Emmet Robinson's "nose was out of joint" a month ago when a little sister came into his home at Nyack. He was 2 years and 7 months old and the first and only child when wee Gladys blessed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Robinson.

Emmet felt he was dethroned, as baby ruler of the household. He hated his sister, who, he thought, childishly, had taken his place in the affections of his mother and father. They said to him:

"See your new sister, Emmet. Look how sweet she is, your helpless sister. When you both get big it will be for you to protect her."

Wee Lad Is Jealous.

But the boy tried to thrust them aside, tore himself from them, ran away, and hid himself.

No one but a jealous child can tell what thoughts, what hopes, and what rage animated him. He killed Gladys on Saturday. She was buried Tuesday.

Mrs. Robinson told Coroner Bittig that often after Gladys' birth Emmet told her he wanted the "baby to go away." Once she caught him striking Gladys and once he upset the cradle in which she lay.

At 8 o'clock Saturday evening Mrs. Robinson left Emmet in the room with the sleeping Gladys. He was on the floor playing with a bronze statuette, which to amuse him his mother had taken from attic mantelpiece.

Five minutes passed. Mrs. Robinson heard Emmet's shrill voice, "Mamma, hurry, come look at baby." She rushed into the room. By the cradle stood Emmet grasping the statuette, which was covered with blood. A glance at the baby told the mother that Gladys was desperately injured. Not daring to leave there, Mrs. Robinson seized him, grabbed the statuette away from him, and hurried him into another room, in which she locked him.

Then she ran for Dr. D. C. Kline, nearby. When the doctor arrived Gladys was dead. Her skull was fractured. Dr. Kline is positive Emmet delivered six blows with the statuette, which weighs a pound and a half. He had struck all the blows before he called his mother to "look at baby."

THREE HUNDRED DROWN.

Japanese Gunboat Strikes a Submerged Mine and Goes Down.

Tokio, Oct. 12.—While running under full steam for shelter from a terrific storm in Pigeon bay the Japanese armored gunboat Hel Yen struck a submerged mine and went down with her entire crew of almost 300 men. Only four men out of the gunboat's complement succeeded in reaching the shore.

The survivors, two petty officers and two sailors, swam to the beach of Chiao-pai Island, where they were found two days afterward.

The disaster occurred on the night of Sept. 18.

The following official announcement of the disaster was made here:

"It is highly regrettable that no report in any form has been received of the fate of the other survivors. The sad event was made worse on account of the weather, which must have added greatly to the awful result caused by the explosion of the mine."

Boat Was a Trophy.

The Hel Yen was one of the vessels captured from the Chinese at Wei Hai Wei in the war between China and Japan. The Hel Yen was converted into an armored gunboat and carried a crew of 300 men. With the exception of eleven men who were detached on special duty the entire crew was on board when the disaster occurred.

The gunboat was engaged on guard duty in the vicinity of Pigeon bay. According to the story told by the survivors, at dusk on the evening of Sept. 18, a terrific storm arose accompanied by high seas. After weathering the storm for a time, the Hel Yen endeavored to return to the shelter of her base. A heavy downpour of rain and pitchy darkness accompanied the storm and difficulty was found in steering a course through the network of mines.

Ship's Boats Are Swamped. Suddenly one of the floating mines exploded under the starboard side of the Hel Yen. The vessel immediately filled and began to sink.

An attempt was made to lower the boats but all were swamped as they were lowered in the heavy seas. The crew then jumped into the sea and attempted to swim to land. They were beaten back by the heavy combers and quickly drowned.

For several days after the disaster other vessels of the Japanese fleet patrolled the coast on the lookout for survivors but failed to find any but the four men first picked up.

Stoessel Captures Guns.

London, Oct. 12.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says: "In a dispatch to the Emperor General Stoessel confirms the report that desperate sorties from Port Arthur were made on Oct. 5 and 6, and states that the Russians, with greatly inferior forces, repulsed the Japanese four times and captured ten Hotchkiss guns."

UNIVERSITY WILL NOT MOVE

Heidelberg Institution Little Affected by Proposed Merger.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 12.—Heidelberg university will remain at Tiffin, O., despite the report that it would be moved to Indianapolis. Before the adjournment of the Ohio synod a committee of five was appointed by it to meet like committees from the German, central, interior and western synods to consider the question of consolidation and the establishment of one theological seminary, to be located in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago or Indianapolis. Benjamin Ashbacher, a member of Heidelberg's board of regents, says: "Only the theological department of Heidelberg will be affected if the synod, consolidation is perfected. The citizens of Tiffin donated us $50,000 for a new building this year and Heidelberg university will remain in that city."

GIVES PASSES FOR INJURIES

Interurban Road Settles With Victims of Spring Valley Wreck.

Spring Valley, Ill., Oct. 12.—Officials of the Illinois Valley Electric railway, with their attorneys, have been busy in this city settling with the persons injured in the Webster Park wreck last Sunday, in which nearly fifty passengers were more or less severely hurt. Checks for damages, together with life passes on the road, were handed over to thirty-five persons, the checks being in amounts from $25 to $500. Three of the more severely hurt, Mrs. Annie Dyer, Mrs. Catherine Pica and Valentine Karsinski, are in a precarious condition. The conductor, Roland B. Hauer, who had a splinter of glass eight inches long driven through his lungs, died at St. Mary's hospital. He leaves a widow and a 3-weeks-old babe.

CUT UP A CHILD IN SORCERY

Negroes Murder White Baby and Use Pieces in Effort to Work Magic.

Kingstown, St. Vincent, Oct. 12.—Barbarous superstition, which prevails among a portion of the population of West Indian islands, is the basis of a ghastly and extraordinary crime that has come to light in the island of St. Lucia. The finding of the heart and hands of a white child in the possession of an old man, or negro sorcerer, led to the discovery that the child had been murdered and the body mutilated that superstitious natives might, through the possession of portions of the body, be able to work spells.

"Putt' Blain's Da' Apacy."

Rome, Oct. 12.—M. Lucie Ollivier, the French advocate and politician, attributes most of the Catholic troubles in France to the bad idea of the papacy in 1850 in interfering in the domestic policy of the Republic and ordering the Catholics to accept the new regime.
